We've locked down Remote Desktop (RDP) on multiple Windows 10 laptops, but we have a few people who have their Windows 10 laptops set to autoconnect when on Remote Desktop. Is there a way to disable this? We are currently using Windows Server 2012 R2 Standard. A: The below solution I've found works. You can use it to control the autorun of remote desktop connections in Windows 10. To disable Windows 10's autorun feature for remote desktop connections: Open Registry Editor (Win + R and then type regedit.exe). Navigate to the HKEY_LOCAL_MACHINE\Software\Policies\Microsoft\Windows\RemTee Modify the AutoConfig property to its default value, 0. To enable Windows 10's autorun feature for remote desktop connections: Open Registry Editor (Win + R and then type regedit.exe). Navigate to the HKEY_LOCAL_MACHINE\Software\Policies\Microsoft\Windows\RemTee Modify the AutoConfig property to its default value, 1. You can also see official support information here. WILLIAMS, No. 19, Supreme Court of United States. Submitted October 28, 1904. Decided November 16, 1904. ERROR TO THE SUPREME COURT OF THE STATE OF OKLAHOMA. Mr. Jesse B. Bryan for plaintiffs in error. Mr. J.P. Cameron and Mr. Frank S. Walker for defendants in error. *369 MR. JUSTICE McKENNA delivered the opinion of the court. The plaintiffs in error, complainants, being owners of the land which is the subject of litigation in this court, in one count sue the defendants in error, defendants, for a price found due them by a jury, based upon a judgment for defendants, and asking that the same be recovered against the defendants. The defense is, that the land was not the property of defendants, but of a third person, and that they had no notice of the claim of plaintiffs. The jury found the issues for defendants. Judgment was rendered upon the verdict and the Supreme Court affirmed it and also held in the opinion that axLax is an Eclipse based open source framework for scheduling and managing your teams' sports and academic activities. Like your favorite team, it provides you an intuitive user interface which gives you full access to all the information for your teams. For instance, you can see all the practices, games and events for a given season. axLax can display for each game, all its associated teams, coaches, game-related information and even the notes that were written by your students and coaches. What is new in this release: - added ability to edit notes for existing games - added ability to import notes from previous seasons - minor bugs fixed.Q: Hibernate UserType check constraint in database Hibernate 3 has the @Formula annotation for database constraints. Is there something similar for UserType constraints, such as ensuring that you do not put a node that is neither a leaf, nor of degree one or two? (Example code below) @Embeddable public class MyUserType implements UserType { // code... } public class LeafNode { // code } public class JoinNode extends Node { LeafNode child1; LeafNode child2; // code... } A: You can try to use @Embedded, but @Formula is much more flexible. For example: @Entity public class Node { @Formula("parent is not null") @ManyToOne(optional = false) @JoinColumn(name = "parent") private Node parent; ... } @Embeddable @SuppressWarnings("serial") public class OutgoingEdge { @Column(name = "weight") @Formula("node_weight / parent_weight") private double weight; ... } The formula will be checked at INSERT time only. Please note that you have to create a table for OutgoingEdge as well, and the foreign key in this table must be a subtype of the join column in Node.

What's New in the AxLax?
